G L A M O U R
Longwood Center for the Visual Arts invites you to participate as a sponsor of Glamour, its 2022 black tie winter gala, held on Saturday 12 February 2022 in the Blackwell Ballroom at Longwood University.

The LCVA’s widely anticipated biennial gala is the best attended event of its kind in the region. All proceeds support the LCVA’s community outreach programs. More than 500 attendees will delight in an elegant evening inspired by the Golden Age of Hollywood while enjoying heavy hors d’oeuvres, an open bar, and live music. A live auction, featuring fine arts and crafts, complements a sale gallery.

Gala sponsors and their ticketed guests have the opportunity to join us in advance of the gala opening for an exclusive sponsors-only reception, which includes early access to the sale galleries. Premier sponsorship levels, which begin at $1500, include membership in the Citizen Leader Giving Society of Longwood University and invitations to Citizen Leader events throughout the year.
About LCVA

Longwood Center for the Visual Arts, Longwood University’s nationally accredited art museum, is located in historic downtown Farmville, Virginia. We serve as a physical, intellectual and cultural bridge between the university and our community at large. Our roots run deep, dating back to the late 1800s, when Longwood University first began accumulating its museum collections. Since its founding, Longwood has been an institution constantly looking to the future, envisioning a society peopled by community-minded leaders well-educated in the meaning and worth of good citizenship and personal responsibility. The university has long understood that education is more than a means to earn a living. It is a means by which to live a life—a life of learning, beauty and hope.

The LCVA is the only museum of its kind, scope and size in the area surrounding our home in Prince Edward County. Our commitment to improve the quality of life in the region by providing full access to the visual arts is the heart of our mission. At the LCVA, we believe there should be no barriers to exploration of the visual arts. Admission to the LCVA and its programs is—and always has been—free for everyone.

In addition to presenting inspiring and conversation-starting exhibitions within our walls, we take the LCVA on the road to bring interdisciplinary programs to more than 60 public, private and home schools in 14 South Central Virginia counties. Each year our educators bring the visual arts to thousands of K-12 students in the community.

While the LCVA is generously supported in part by Longwood University, approximately 60% of our operating budget is derived from private individuals, businesses, and charitable foundations. We also rely heavily on our volunteers. Through their unwavering support, our organizational capacity has been able to keep pace with our goals.
The LCVA is for Everyone

We envision the LCVA as a place for everyone, and we take that place with us no matter where we go. The 2022 gala theme Glamour, inspired by the magic of the Golden Age of Hollywood, invites you to join us in letting our imagination run free. In the past, our collective imagining brought life to the LCVA as it exists today, whether that is an exhibition in downtown Farmville, or hands-on interdisciplinary art activity in classrooms in our 14-county service area.

What We Do

Strengthen the fabric of our community by providing meaningful art engagement experiences for people of all ages and backgrounds.

Develop strong partnerships with those who share our passion and vision for the betterment of our community.

Bring engaging art experiences to the classroom, break down psychological barriers and preconceptions about museums, and bring thousands of children to our Farmville galleries every year.

Collect and preserve excellent examples of art, with a particular focus on Virginia artists and American art. We also advocate for the fair and professional treatment of artists.

Curate and present engaging and thought provoking exhibitions, and share them with museums outside our community.
